

Feb 14th Indoor Fun Fly

By Brian Korchinski

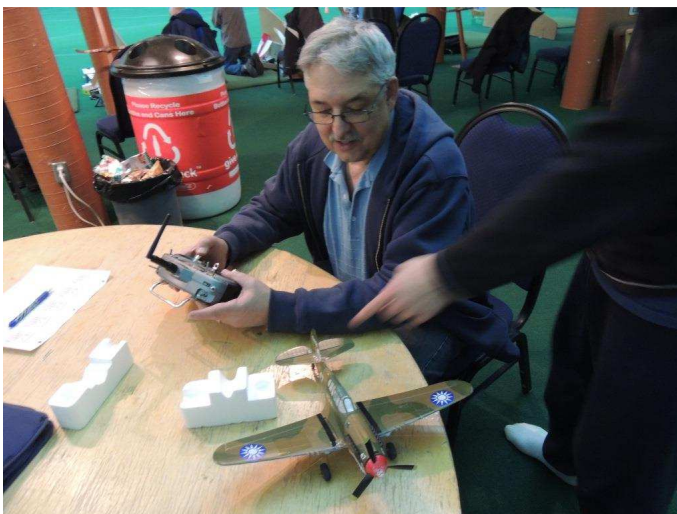

Despite blizzard conditions (and Valentines Day) we gathered at the Ramada Golf Dome for some indoor flying. I applaud the 8 regular members and 2 junior members who showed up to fly. The event was a $35 loss but all considered not bad in light of the weather challenges. I don't recall any spectacular mishaps. Personally I had a lot of fun flying my new AS3Extra. It's slow and very aerobatic. A lowlight was failing to get Kaelan Reynold's P-40 back in the air. On a related note I have to advise this is likely our last indoor event of the season. We are trying to book dates at the Golf Dome for March and April but right now it is not looking so good. We compete with football and slo-pitch leagues for the same time-slots. I'll advise if we are able to book a date.

The Dodd's prepare for another flight

Sol training a buddy with his AS3Extra

Greg checking the throws on Kaelan's P-40

Neil and Bob...total concentration!

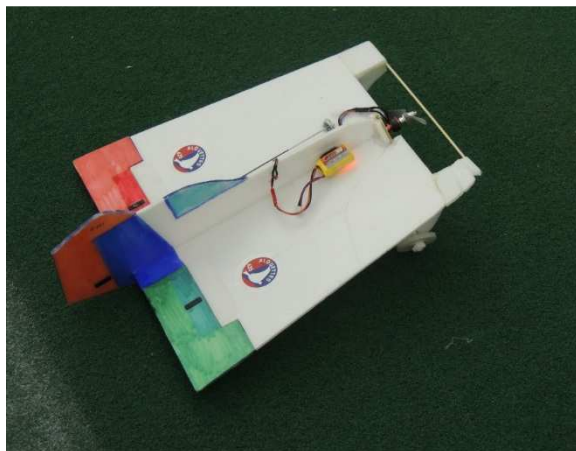

This young fellow had great success with his plane

I get ready to test fly Kaelan's repaired P-40. It was tail heavy and uncontrollable.

John getting his Zippy ready for a flight

Howard's new Zippy

View of flightline

Sol with his Beast